

Spies Like Us

In the description of two spies below, the adjectives have been taken out. Can you put them back in to make the most powerful description?

The two spies stepped purposefully out of the lift. Although they were not dressed in typical _____ costumes, you could tell instantly that what job they did. Both posing as _____ men, the first was dressed in an _____ suit which perfectly matched his _____ hair. At first sight, he appeared to be an _____ man as his _____ eyes shone with a devious cleverness. His _____ stubble gave him a somewhat _____ look. Upon _____ inspection, it became apparent that he had a black wire protruding out of his _____ ear.

The other man, was similarly dressed in the same _____ suit, and also had a _____ earpiece, this time protruding from the right ear. His hair, however, was _____ and he had a _____ goatee dyed the same colour. His eyes _____ and _____ flicked around the room. His partner certainly seemed like the brains of the two. The second did not look like he could add two and two together.

Answer

The two spies stepped purposefully out of the lift. Although they were not dressed in typical spy costumes, you could tell instantly that what job they did. Both posing as business men, the first was dressed in an expensive suit which perfectly matched his short jet black hair. At first sight, he appeared to be an intelligent man, as his blue eyes shone with a devious cleverness. His designer stubble gave him a somewhat rugged look. Upon closer inspection, it became apparent that he had a black wire protruding out of his left ear.

The other man, was similarly dressed in the same coloured suit, and also had a tiny earpiece, this time protruding from the right ear. His hair, however, was brown and he had a small goatee dyed the same colour. His eyes narrow and dangerous flicked around the room. His partner certainly seemed like the brains of the two. The second did not look like he could add two and two together.
